Coppermoly strengthens market links

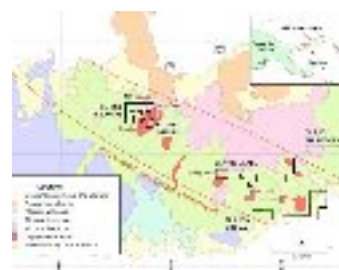

Wednesday, 7 December 2011

Coppermoly could lift its profile among Australia's stockbroking community after appointing Melbourne-based RBS Morgans senior private client advisor Ben Faulkner to its board.

Faulkner's appointment as a non-executive director of the Australia-listed PNG explorer was effective as of yesterday.

Bob McNeil recently resigned from this Coppermoly board position to further advance his retirement after decades of involvement in PNG's mining scene.

A looming milestone for Coppermoly is the granting of two out of the three exploration licences it has applied for in East New Britain, expected in the coming weeks.
